Discipline of Psychotherapy and Counselling International Workshop

Discipline of Psychotherapy and Counselling International Workshop:

Post- existentialism vs post-humanism: some implications for psychotherapeutic practice, theory and research.

In this two-day workshop, we will explore the importance of giving a primacy to practice through a return to phenomenology. This workshop is suitable for therapeutic practitioners at all levels and will include practice sessions exploring initially an introduction to existential implications for practice through to philosophical reading of texts, as well as critically questioning of our professional and personal values.
