

An invaluable resource for all counsellors and social service and health practitioners

Counselling and the Law has an established position as an excellent guide to the law for counsellors and other social service and health practitioners. It has proven equally relevant for experienced practitioners and students engaged in counsellor education. It provides a comprehensive overview of the law as it affects all aspects of counselling and offers practical guidelines.

This second edition (2012) ensures that the book (first published in 2003) is now updated to incorporate changes made to the law since then. It is an essential resource and reference tool for all practitioners in the counselling and related fields. This new edition includes a comprehensive index.

ROBERT LADBROOK is an expert in the law relating to counselling activities in New Zealand. He has written this book in a clear and concise style that will make it accessible to all.

This publication is supported and endorsed by the New Zealand Association of Counsellors

Order online at www.dunmore.co.nz or send a cheque with the form below to

Dunmore Publishing, PO Box 28-387, Auckland 1541
phone 09 521 3121 email books@dunmore.co.nz

Counselling and the Law A New Zealand guide – 2nd Edition (2012)

Robert Ludbrook

170×240mm, 464 pp
ISBN: 978-1-877399-67-1

Available now

RRP: $54.99 (includes p&p within NZ)

Discounts available on multiple copies

Please send me _____ copies of this book.

I enclose my cheque for $ _____

Name: _____

Address: _____
